Your True Voice

Explore the amazingness of your voice and expression – singing and speaking!
This workshop will show without a doubt that we all absolutely have a voice that is naturally tune-full, free-flowing as we explore self-empowering communication, stillness, active listening and the self-care that naturally happens when we honour our expression.

Sing like you have never sung before!

Chris James presents the power of sound, voice and self-expression internationally.
From corporate seminars, health professionals to community choirs and schoolchildren around the world, presenter, voice teacher and singer, Chris reaches all walks of life. He is known for his unique ability to form instant choirs on the spot – up to 20,000 people at once at Festivals and concerts. Chris has also provided professional development courses for The Royal Australian College of General Practitioners, teachers and other professional agencies.

This course has been accepted as a Professional Development activity.
